It is my hope that this wine list is as dynamic as the menu. Filled with liquid treasure that will enhance your dining experience, your meal or even the company!

The Fat Fish wine list will always be a work in progress. Wine estates constantly introduce new ranges and release special reserves. Seasons change and one vintage will outperform the next. We hope to showcase the diverse wine regions and wine-making styles that our country has to offer and we’re proud to now introduce wines from the Plettenberg Bay region. The pioneering spirit and passion of land owners and growers are evident in the wonderful wines of this region.

Please read through our Plettenberg Bay Wine Guide as these wine farms not only have wine to offer but also an array of restaurants and activities that will make your visit to this area a memorable one. A number of these wines have been chosen because they are benchmark wines from well-established estates with highly respected winemakers. Some, because the current vintage has excelled, but many because I have tried them and enjoyed them.

Wine is subjective. Many times a bottle of wine has been enjoyed in a particular environment only to be tried again and discovered that it really was not that appealing. It is our mission to ensure that you enjoy every last drop no matter what the wine or the occasion.

Opinions abound. Put ten regular folks in a room and ask them to discern the inherent characteristics of a wine and you will get ten different answers and all of them would be right. My personal belief is that we overanalyse wine and often remove the simple pleasure that it is meant to bring. Sometimes we should drink it just because it’s lekker!!!

Yours in liberating the bottom of the bottle!

Sincerely,

The Bartinney team believes that truly great wine begins in the vineyard and that a truly great vineyard is founded in a diverse and healthy ecological environment.

As custodians of the unique and diverse farm, fourth generation owners Rose and Michael Jordaan are on a mission to farm with the utmost respect for nature, conserving its bounty for generations to come. Spearheaded by owner Rose Jordaan, Bartinney is carbon neutral, pesticide and herbicide free and a WWF Conservation Champion since 2009.

All invasive alien trees have been removed, replaced by 7,000 endemic trees. Re-established native fynbos provides nature corridors and habitats, encouraging the movement of endemic wild animals and insect species. Back in abundance is rich biodiversity, including porcupines, Cape silver foxes, honey badgers and leopards. This approach does not stop at the farm gates. Rose is a founding member and trustee of the Banhoek Conservancy, whose goal is to socially and environmentally improve the valley.
WWF CONSERVATION CHAMPIONS

With 95% of wine-growing taking place in the unique habitat of the Cape winelands, WWF participates in a pioneering partnership between the South African wine industry and the conservation sector.

To promote awareness and participation in driving conservation-minded farming practices, the Biodiversity and Wine Initiative (BWI) was established in 2004 using a voluntary membership model. It has since received international recognition for the South African wine industry as leaders of the global wine sector in demonstrating the balance between nature and farming.

The Biodiversity and Wine Initiative is focussed on:

1. Minimising the loss of threatened natural habitat in the Cape winelands;

2. Increasing the total area of well-managed natural habitat set aside in contractually protected areas;

3. Promoting changes in farming practices that enhance the suitability of vineyards for biodiversity and reducing farming practices and their impact on biodiversity, both in vineyards and surrounding natural areas;

4. Positioning the biodiversity of the Succulent Karoo and Cape Floral Kingdom – and industry’s proactive stance to environmental sustainability and conservation – as a unique selling point.

Those who have attained WWF’s Conservation Champion status, can use the striking logo of the sugarbird on the protea on their wine bottles. Consumers can look out for this logo which encapsulates the symbiosis of nature and acknowledges these producers as environmental industry leaders.

Anthonij Rupert Wyne was founded on the farm, L’Ormarins in Franschhoek. Originally owned by the late Anthonij Rupert, who passed away in 2001, the farm was eventually taken over by his brother Johann Rupert in 2003 and the brand named after him. It was Johann Rupert who constructed a state-of-the-art winemaking facility, catapulting the farm into a prestigious wine estate and the beginnings of what is now a sprawling enterprise. The L’Ormarins Estate houses the Terra del Capo cellars, equipped with state-of-the-art machinery, gravity-fed cellars and a mechanical flywheel, the only one of its kind on the continent and responsible for the production of these award-winning wines. The precision and sense of detail is carried on to two exquisite tasting rooms located on the estate, each one dedicated to one of the popular wine ranges.

THE VRIESENHOF WAY

Wine is not only the memory of terroir, but also the expression of place. However, it changes from vintage to vintage – an ever-evolving memory adding not only to the history of the place, but also to the relationship between nature and man. Every vintage is a true reflection of the triumphs and struggles of each growing season, but also the excitement of what that vintage can bring.

In the words of legendary Australian winemaker, Jack Mann: Nature creates, man only guides.”

WHAT DOES THE CERTIFICATION SEAL ON A SOUTH AFRICAN BOTTLE OF WINE MEAN?

A certification seal appears on each container of wine or estate brandy which has been certified by the Wine and Spirit Board. This seal is a guarantee of origin, vintage and variety as stated on the wine label. In addition, the South African wine industry has become a world leader in production integrity, an important dimension of which is the focus on sustainability through the Integrated Production of Wine (IPW) scheme, an industry-wide, technical system of sustainable wine production. Compliance with the scheme provides buyers with a guarantee that grape production was undertaken with due consideration of the environment, and that the wine was produced in an environmentally responsible manner and is safe for the consumer.

Allée Bleue offers visitors a unique experience – world-class wines, fruit and herbs, stunning event and conference venues, a bistro and picnic venue, a fresh produce shop, warm hospitality, historic charm and contemporary art, surrounded by the breathtaking scenery of the Franschhoek Valley. Paired notes of juniper and wild lavender introduce the Karoo followed by a fresh medley of citrus including limes, Clemenc Gold and farm-grown lemon buchu.
